

LEADER JOBS

WHAT IS A LEADER ?

Someone's got to take the reins, it might as well be you! Leaders are inspirational individuals who can communicate and motivate others to action. They have great listening and observational skills and feel comfortable in stressful situations. People look to leaders for strength and direction when they are facing difficult decisions.

JOB TYPES * (SEE MORE BELOW)

PRODUCTION COORDINATOR PROJECT MANAGER OPERATIONS MANAGER CHIEF FINANCIAL OFFICER (CFO) CEO CHIEF INFORMATION OFFICER (CIO) ENTREPRENEUR

WHAT WILL I DO?

Production Coordinators make sure that every aspect of the production is in order from radio soundbites to commercials to blockbuster movies. Multitasking isn't an optional skill in this line of work, as you'll be managing quite a few different productions at a time. You'll need to be communicative with your coworkers and have a firm grasp on project management.

Project Managers have their hands in everyone's soup. Metaphorically, of course. As a Project Manager, your job is to make sure that everyone is on track and on schedule to complete tasks given by your bosses. Charisma is not required but can become necessary as you'll be managing the company's worker bees.

As an Operations Manager, you're the team leader. You make sure that deliveries, product launches, and your team are all on time and stay on track. You will also have to be sure that everything from development to the launch works for every team involved - from the engineers to the marketers.

A Chief Financial Officer manages a company's finances. The CFO knows how every cent is spent, makes predictions about profit and loss, and is a necessity for large companies that want to make even larger profits. No major financial decision is made without a CFO's approval.

The Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of an organization is the person calling all of the big shots, meaning you're in charge - of pretty much everything. CEOs make most of the executive and final decisions for their company, weighing the best options and designating the right people to the right jobs. There's no shortage of responsibilities for CEOs, but that's ok. With a strong sense of leadership, a good team behind them, and the ability to balance multiple tasks at once, a CEO can handle anything.

If a company's internet is down for even a few minutes, the damage can be huge. The Chief Information Officer is in charge of a company's IT strategy as well as all of the computer systems required to run a business. This includes everything from data storage and transmission to constant analysis in order to make sure everything runs smoothly.

You have a business idea that you think will change the world. Entrepreneurs are natural leaders who take the reins of all parts of business development. They are passionate about their business, confident about their brand, and not afraid of taking risks.

SALARY

$43,832 $91,440 $97,730 $100,000 $159,108 $200,000 $ WILL VARY

WILL I ENJOY IT?

You are the designated leader in every group project you've ever been a part of thanks to your work ethic, leadership, and organizational skills.

You wrote your entire friend group's class schedule down so you could remind them of upcoming assignments.

You're the president of five out of six clubs in your school and have managed to never have a meeting or event clash.

You were always the banker when you played Monopoly and readily gave unsolicited advice as to whether buying a property was a good idea.

Your term as class president saw the most productivity from the student body that your school had seen in decades. Leadership and people skills were two things you were born to wield.

Your friends and family always call you first when their phone isn't working and you tend to roll your eyes at how basic they are when it comes to refreshing a router.

People drove out of their way to come to your lemonade stand because of the customer service, marketing, and the product. You made more in one day than your friends did all summer.

WHERE CAN I TRAIN OR LEARN?

Dominican University	Bentley University	Babson College	University of Chicago	Ball State University	The Ohio State University	Georgetown
Emerson College	Babson College	Pepperdine University	Duke University	Chadron State College	Penn State	Boston College
Ferris State University	Georgetown University	Bryant University	Boston College	Iowa State University	Yale	Business Mentor

WHERE CAN I WORK?

Pandora	Lyft	CVS Health	Central Valley Gaming LLC	Meridian Behavioral Health, LLC	Walmart	The possibilities are endless, and you could be hiring people to work at your business one day.
BuzzFeed	Thermo Fisher Scientific	goPuff	Wind River Hotel and Casino	WSI Internet Consulting	AT&T
Amazon Studios	Geico	Verizon	Bank of America	United Way Worldwide	Boeing

* OTHER POSSIBLE LEADER JOBS: Law Enforcement Officer, Coach, Teacher, Elected Official.

Find out what STEAM type you are.

go online to
tiny.cc/STEAMTYPE or scan the QR code

"Helping educators prepare today's students for tomorrow's careers"

inventionlandinstitute.com

Watch our Emmy-nominated show Tomorrow's World Today on

twtsow.com